English Lawmakers Hurl Charges That Domestic Aircraft Industry Is Not Producing Planes Fast Enough

Sense Danger

Belief Held 1,750 Planes Necessary to Defend London and Other Cities

London, April 25 (AP)-The disquicting realization that Britain has not enough airplanes either to defend itself or attack an enemy successfully placed a major problem squarely before Parliament and cabinet today.

From all sides came charges that the domestic aircraft indus-, try was not producing bombers; and fighters rapidly enough. The scramble for more planes was said to be based on the British military theory that the next war would be fought with tremendous masses of aircraft both in detending London and other vital points and in inflicting immediate devastation upon enemy ob-

Such a war, this theory held. would last only a few weeks and victory would ride with the largcar airforce.

The plane problem promised to come to the fore in Parliament just before Sir John Simon, chancellor of the exchequer, unfolds his budget Tuesday. One member of parliament has asked permission to raise the questions. Unless there is a satisfactory explanation of a serious lag in air rearmament, it was predicted a parliamentary storm would be loosed in a formal inquiry into

UPS AND DOWNS

While we are in the economic Valley of Despond, longing to see another business idea, but most people think of it as being Blows dealt civilization by economic and sofairly uniform through the years. The Technocrats, however, starting three-quarters of a century back, and plotting their charts of prosperity and depression from peak to peak and dip to dip, say the most striking fact about the business cycle is this—that it "gains in frequency and amplitude." That is, the cycles come closer together, peaks become higher and valleys lower, we move more quickly from boom to depression and vice versa. They compare it sometimes to "an accelerating motor that tends to shake itself to pieces.'

If this is true, as they insist, it seems more risky to "pump credit", whether public or private, into the business system, because the response may be too quick and powerful. Production may increase so fast that the goods cannot be absorbed by consumers. Then plunk to new bottom! The theory seems to fit recent developments just enough to make it alarming. Is this true, and if so what can be done about it? The orthodox economists ought to explain.

CHEMICAL OUTLOOK

Among the statements made by speakers before the American Chemical Society at Dallas, Texas, were these:

The five-billion-dollar chemical industry is the third largest in America.

It spent $100,000,000 last year on expanthis year because of uncertainties about taxes and wages.

If these uncertainties were removed, it would go ahead right now with another $100,000,000 expansion.

The chemical industry has topped all other industries in economic progress, using as a basis of comparison the boom years of 1925 to 1929 and the depression years of 1933 to Industrial disputes in the chemical industry are "almost unheard of".

New profits in chemistry rose faster than in any other of 100 foremost American in-

Most of the extra rise occurred in those companies which spent most money for scientific research.

If two and two really make four, the chemical industry has few really troublesome uncertainties in its future. Spending money for expansion and scientific research looks like betting on a sure thing.

STUDENT DRIVERS

The investigator for Indiana's automobile license bureau reports that the highest awards for skill among drivers in that state go to those of school age and to those with hag to Temple Emanuel with appropriate exerpartial physical disability. He thinks these cises held in the Temple. two groups make particularly good drivers because the former have been required to attend driving schools and the latter, recognizing that their licenses depend on their good records, are always alert and careful.

It is possible, too, that young drivers are good because of their youth. Their reflexes are prompt. They have grown up in a machine age and know cars as earlier generations knew horses. Such an explanation does not include the irresponsible youth whose daring and lack of judgment lead him to do crazy things with a car he could otherwise handle skillfully. But, as one observer points out, there are irresponsible people at all ages. They do not win safety awards, no matter how old or how young they are.

REFORMED "BAD BOY"

The extreme "badness" of which Jackie Coogan has been accused turns out to have been, according to his testimony, flunking at college as his dad had done and then going home drunk once. After that spree, he > Naturally, too, as a married man, Jackie would like a little of the money he carned when a minor. 'To an onlooker that doesn't seem unreasonable. And if he can't take care of his money, maybe his wife can. Somehow a large and rather old-fashioned public still take an affectionate interest in that kid.

METEORIC CRASH

Today, 30 years after the event, scientists are studying the effects of a gigantic meteor that struck the earth in Central Siberia on June 30, 1908. They have found that in a circle 25 miles in diameter trees were knocked down and all exposed parts of trunks and limbs seared. Violent air waves laid fences flat 250 miles away. At 375 miles' distance men were thrown from rafts into a river and at 435 miles horses were knocked

(Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act) GALL BLADDER

When a patient complains of indigestion, with or without vomiting, gas attacks, pain in upper right side of abdomen, it is likely a physician by stating that the symptoms are due to the gall bladder would be right three times in four. Pain in stomach with gas attacks is more often due to the gall bladder than to any frouble in the stomach itself. Most of us think of gall bladder disturbances as "always" causing paundice but specialists in stomach, intestine and the entire digestive apparatus, tell us that there can be considerable disturbance in the gall bladder without the appearance of jaundice.

Dr. T. Grier Miller, Philadelphia, in Delaware State Medical Journal, states. In our stomach and intestine clinic, leaving out those whose symptoms are not due to any organic defect, 38 cent of those with indigestion have inflammation of the gall bladder (cholecystitis). Vague symptoms of indigestion, not easily explained by any findings and that do not respond to treatment for stomach and intestinal conditions should arouse suspicions of gall bladder disease."

Another point emphasized by Dr. Miller is that the fact that stones are present in the gall bladder should not be considered definite the stones are causing the symptoms of indigession, but has cut its spending rate sharply tion. "Since 15 to 30 per cent of all adults are believed eventually to have gatt stones, and many of them go through life without symptoms, it seems hardly justifiable to condemn to operation every individual in whom stones are accidentally discovered. If however, there are no other causes for the symptoms present, everything else being equal, the stones should be removed."

When no stones are present, Dr. Miller advises that the patient be given medical treatment for a few weeks or months and if results are not satisfactory, operation on the gall bladder be performed. The suggested medical treatment includes the removal of all points of infectiondiscused teeth, tonsils, sinus, and others-the avoidance of physical and nervous strains, rest periods to prevent fatigue, and a weight reducing diet if pationt is overweight, and a diet also that will not irritate disestive tract (no rough foods), and the use of sufficient fat foods to make the gall bladder empty itself frequently.

Man About

Manhattan

-By George Tucker-

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Back in the days of David Belasco on Broadway there existed an almost wholly invariable rule that a man must stick to the job he chose and not invade other fields. With a few notable exceptions of actor-managers most every man in the theatre stuck to one job. But, that isn't true on the Broadway of one of the town's best actors, now skips from playwrighting to di-equally high facility. "Room Service" and "Brother Rat," two cur-bag and emerald velvet wrap with its chinchilla collar, Cissy trailed from the room on tall gold heels, leaving a whiff of gray smoke in her wake.

Judith stood for a moment gazing after her.

"Why do I let her disturb me?
Why?" But as on the evening of er first visit to Goodloe's Choice Cissy had rocked Judith's world to its very foundation. Immediately Reuben ceased to be a dim shadow in the background of his wife's life. He became very real—loomed very large. In a flash she realized that Reuben was the foundation of her present worldnot the make believe world of laughter and whispered tenderness, but the real world that held the babies, spinach, carrots, clean laundry-without Reuben-

She dressed for the dance with utmost care in her one really fine "Silly to wear it through these woods," Judith told herself, sen-"You sibly, but she did not take it off. Instead she smiled at her reflection in the mirror with satisfaction. She was pretty again.

"I won't be frightened!" she went out on the parch to join Cissy.

"Reuben will be late." she said easily, as though there had been no scene between them, "He always is."

"It wouldn't surprise me if he doesn't get here at all," Cissy replied with the too cheerful air of a woman who is trying to prepare And then, almost as though her longing had brought him, Reuben's his wife and her guest with mock seriousness he said: "Your loveliness dazzles me "He didn't kiss her," Cissy noted with satisfaction. "A new deal is imminent—I hope I'll hold a trump or two.' The Queen Is Dead

THAT night brought startled realization to Judith that the breach between herself and Reuben had deepened and widened gradually, insidiously until each stood on opposite sides of a spanless chasm across which only the faintest echoes of their real selves were audible. If Reuben had become a shadow to her, she was only the most vaporish ghost to Reuben-a ghost to be tolerated and treated politely.

Being a ghost had its good in Buffalo, where Mr. Dwyer is points. One could stand on the side lines and view life impartialnow a district manager for the Colonial Beacon Oil Co. y and unobserved. She saw Reuben more clearly from this distance than she ever had in the heetic, crowded days at Fordney's Gulch. The shadow was gaining substance. It gained vastly as she watched her husband dancing—with Cissy.

Judith's partner, a German professor, followed her gaze: "They dance well together."

"I was noticing that."
He laughed, "They have plenty f practice." So! People were talking-

Judith tried not to watch Reuben, conscious in every part of her of the new indefinable quality about him. He looked like a man who has awakened after a long sleep to more abundant strength, power, happiness. He mingled with the dancers but was plainly not of them. He wore a detached look, a soaring look—
"The eagle," Cissy had called him that night at Goodloe's Choice. Had accused Judith of chaining him. "Well, he has cast away his chains tonight."

Cissy was besieged with partners. Here was a new experience for Judith. She was not the undisputed belle, the queen of Camp number 2 tonight. She had been dethroned ruthlessly and quite as a matter of act. A brighter star had appeared on the horizon. Cissy Rogers was old Clem's sole heiress. If that were not enough to make any girl a sensation old Clem's daughter had beauty. She had charm. She had old Clem's ready friendliness.

Judith acknowledged the end of her reign. "The Queen is dead— long live the Queen!" Her lips quirked whimsically and then she saw Gary—blond, splendid, making his way towards her.

Who said the queen was dead? Without the loss of a single step Gary took her from the professor. He said: "I thought I'd never get

YEAH, I KNOW BOERY JONES OF BALL BOUNCED ACROSS THIS LAKE ON THE LILY PADS, E YOU AINT NO GOLF BALL

A SKIMMING low wood seco shot Bobby Jones hit, while tak a short cut across the lake on Interlachen's ninth in 1930, loo like a drowned ball. But-spec tors said—it hit a lily pad, bound and hit another lily pad, bound again and finally hopped on bank to enable Bobby to make birdie four and win his last U. open by two strakes. Jones lieves it was the luckiest shot ever made in a championship.

BLUE SUNDCO USERS PREFER IT FOR: T QUICK STARTING FAST ACCELERATION T KNOCKLESS QUALITIES POWER ON HILLS TLONG MILEAGE

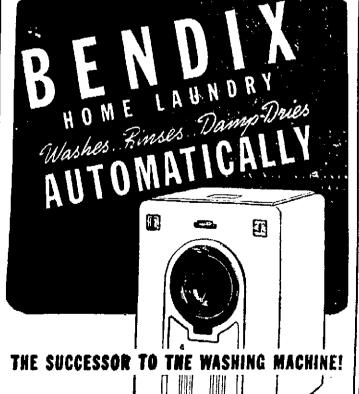

24,744 motorists who recently bought new cars were asked for their gasoline preference

IN 140 EASTERN CITIES

Here's a story of motor fuel superiority...told, not by its manufacturer, but by the most critical of its users:—owners of new cars with high compression engines. These experienced drivers ranked Blue Sunoco first by 57.5% more votes than the next highest on the list...gave it 95% as many votes as the next two gasolines put together. Certainly facts like these should convince you that High Geared Blue Sunoco is the motor fuel for your car... because: -- since new cars require a better gasoline to perform satisfactorily, such a gasoline will obviously perform with at least equal satisfaction in older cars.

This survey was conducted by an independent organisation in New York. Rhode Island, Connecticut, Massechusetts, Pennsylvania, Delaware. New Jerrey, Maryland, West Virginia, Michigan and Ohio. The replies received were submitted to Lybrand, Ross Brothers and Montgomery, certified public accountants, who prepared the above tabulation therefrom.
